

CONTEMPORARY RUSSIA'S FOREIGN POLICY

Public Lectures

The Centre for Cultural Relations - Caucasian House is organizing public lecture series in Russia's Foreign Policy. The lectures will be delivered by Dr. ANDREY MAKARYCHEV, Guest Professor at the University of Tartu, Estonia.

Since the year 2012 "Caucasian House" is conducting analytical researches related to Russia's foreign and internal policy and Georgian-Russian relations while analyzing deeper the different aspects of it. Considering current situation in Georgia, it is extremely important to have professionals and researchers, who understand Russia's foreign policy, internal processes and can contribute by working in academic field as well as participating in development of relevant state policies. It should be noted that it is already second year when Caucasian House is conducting public lectures in Russian Foreign Policy and aims to increase the knowledge of students and young researches about Russia.

VENUE: Tbilisi State University, Building I. Ilia Chavchavadze Ave 1.

SCHEDULE:

|                  |                        |   |
|------------------|------------------------|---|
| Nov 28, 12:00 pm | room 302, 1st building | Russian identity-in-the-making: between the Soviet and the post-Soviet   |
| Nov 28, 14:00 pm | room 302, 1st building | Russia's normative project: the sources of Euroscepticism                |
| Nov 30, 16:00 pm | room 115, 1st building | Russia's neighborhood policy (the cases of Estonia, Ukraine and Georgia) |
| Dec 01, 16:00 pm | room 115, 1st building | After Syria: a new security debate in Russia                             |

Foreign & Commonwealth
Office

Participants who will attend all lectures will be awarded a certificate of completion.

Please register on following link: <http://caucasianhouse.ge/en/news/contemporary-russias-foreign-poicy/>

Other details:

Working language – English

Attendance is free

For additional information please contact project coordinator Ana Dvali by e-mail ana.dvali@caucasianhouse.ge or call +995 577 77 04 09

About Dr. Andrey Makarychev

Dr. A. Makarychev is a Guest Professor of Government and Politics at the University of Tartu, Estonia. His areas of expertise include Russia’s neighbourhood policies and EU-Russia studies. He teaches courses in Foreign Policy Analysis, Globalization, Regionalism and Integration in EU-Russia Common Neighbourhood. His record of previous institutional affiliations includes George Mason University (Fairfax, VA), Center for Conflict Studies (ETH, Zurich), Danish Institute of International Studies (DIIS), Institute for East European Studies (Free University of Berlin, Alexander von Humboldt research fellowship) and Nizhny Novgorod Linguistic University.

Dr. A. Makarychev co-edited a book “Changing Political and Economic Regimes in Russia” (Routledge, 2013), and authored a monograph “Russia and the EU in a Multipolar World: Discourses, Identities, Norms” (ibidem, 2014) and numerous articles published by Global Governance, International Spectator, Problems of Post-Communism, Demokratizatsiya, Journal of International Relations and Development, Cooperation and Conflict, Europe-Asia Studies, Journal of Eurasian Studies, Turkish Foreign Policy Review, and other international peer-reviewed journals, as well as book chapters in edited volumes published by Ashgate, Palgrave Macmillan, Nomos, etc.